

HTML5 form examples

INTRODUCTION

In this section, we will show you what is possible to achieve with recent HTML5 additions for forms. Try the examples, enter erroneous values, submit the forms, and see what happens.

This week the course is rather long and before explaining all the details of the elements and attributes introduced by HTML5. As a start we suggest playing with running examples of full featured forms.

THE EXAMPLES

These examples are creations by students from a previous version of this course, when it was hosted at the w3devcampus.com Web site (the W3C e-learning platform). They are given "as is". They use the geolocation API that will be presented in Week 6 for auto-filling the address input fields. This part will be explained next week.

Feel free to look at the source code, and do not hesitate to ask questions in the forum in case you need explanations.
